Realm-Specific Space Terminology & Structural Hierarchy

"Space" is the generic structural concept, but each Realm gets terminology appropriate to what people actually do there. A user might enter a Sanctuary in the Temple Realm, a Room in Home, a Vault in Financial, a Dojo in Martial Arts, or a Studio in Music.

The COMPUTROM Hierarchy

This structure is more sophisticated than calling every environment a “room.” The Realm establishes the major destination; the Realm-specific Space names the kind of environment a member enters; Areas or Sections organize that environment; and Features, Tools, or Content provide the actual functions.

COMPUTROM → REALM → REALM-SPECIFIC SPACE → AREA / SECTION → FEATURE / TOOL / CONTENT

Examples

REALM	EXAMPLE PATH
ULTRIS FINANCIAL REALM	Vault → Sub-Vault → Account / financial feature
ULTRIS MARTIAL ARTS REALM	Dojo → Training Area → Program / activity
ULTRIS MUSIC REALM	Studio → Production Room → Music-making feature
ULTRIN TEMPLE REALM	Sanctuary → Prayer Area → Individual / group activity
ULTRIS HOME REALM	Room / Office / Vault → Communications Room → Phone / Text / Email / Video / Contacts

Structural Principle

Realm-specific terminology helps members understand what kind of environment they are entering while preserving a consistent underlying COMPUTROM architecture. Major destinations remain Realms; their internal environments use terminology that fits their purpose.
